Editors' Foreword

Observers of our actions have at times confided as to their doubt whether it could have been long since our ancestors came down out of the trees. With fear, but great courage, we proceeded to look, and "now it can be told."

Who are our kinsfolk? Where do they live? What are they doing? Just how are we related?

What about our ancestors? When did they come to this country? Where did they live—or don't you care?

Anyway, here is the record as we find it. We hope you get as much pleasure in reading it as we have had in its preparation. We regret having been unable to get an equal amount of detail about each family, but your kind response to our numerous letters has been truly appreciated.

Dedication

This little booklet is respectfully dedicated to Dr. Ira L. Hanford, 738 Gunderson Avenue, Oak Park, Illinois, whose interest and fund of information has made it possible.

We appreciate his diligence, through the years, in gathering and preserving information from books, epitaphs, correspondence, and from travel during a special trip to New York and Connecticut.

To the families in the East, especially Mrs. Sheldon Hoyt of Walton, New York, William Homer Benedict, and Platt Hanford, we are greatly indebted.

From the West Coast has come much interesting information, a product of the research of Mrs. Marjorie Black of Long Beach, California.

Interesting items of early history were secured through the Media Research Bureau, 1110 F. Street, Washington, D. C.

The Name and Family of Benedict

The name of Benedict was originally a baptismal name derived from the Latin word "benedictus," meaning benediction or blessing.

The first to use the name is believed to have been St. Benedict, an Italian hermit of about the year 496 A.D. He was the builder of twelve monasteries and the founder of the Order of the Benedictines. Between the years 575 and 1740 fourteen popes have borne the name of Benedict.

Historical records indicate that the family is of French origin. Apparently to avoid religious persecution, they fled to Germany, then to Holland, and finally to England at an extremely early period. Among the earliest records of the name of Benedict in England is that of Benedict de Pennington, County Cumberland, in the year 1185.

Available historical material on the Benedicts shows them to have been a conservative, upright, and energetic family, of greater than average mental ability, often notably successful in their chosen professions.

Among the Benedicts who fought as officers in the War of the Revolution were Captain Elisha, of New York; Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph, of New York; Captains Daniel and Noble, of Connecticut; Adjutant Amos, of Connecticut; Ensign Caleb, of New York; Lieutenant Peter, of New York; and Lieutenant Samuel, of Connecticut.

There is a tradition to the effect that for many generations the name was handed down from only son to only son. One William Benedict, who was living in Nottinghamshire, England, at the beginning of the sixteenth century, had a son named William, who had a son also named William. The third William was the father in 1617, of an only son named Thomas. After the death of his first wife, the third William married the Widow Bridgum, but there was no further issue by this marriage.

In 1638, THOMAS (1) and his step-sister, Mary Bridgum, the daughter of his father's second wife by her first husband, emigrated to New England and shortly after reaching America were married. They first made their home at Southold, on Long Island, N. Y., where they were the parents of five sons and four daughters. Thomas and his family later removed to Huntington, thence to Jamaica, and eventually settled at Norwalk, Conn., where Thomas was deacon, selectman, town clerk, and representative at various times in his career.

According to Lamb's History of New York (see Vol. I, p. 202 and footnote), Thomas Benedict from Nottinghamshire lived at Jamaica, L. I., and became a man of distinction among men of the period. He was magistrate, the director of a little trained band in the neighborhood, a pillar in the church, (Congregational), the arbitrator of differences between the settlers and the Indians, one of the legislative body to create and codify the system of law on Long Island after its conquest from the Dutch and, subsequently, a member of the Colonial Assembly.

After it had been announced that Long Island was "no longer under the Dutch government, but under that of Connecticut" the residents sent a petition to the General Court at Hartford:

"As we ar alruddy according to our best information under the scurts of your patten, so would you be pleased to cast over us the scurts of your government and protection." This was signed by Thomas Benedict, Thomas Benedict Jr., and others.

THE STORY OF THE BENEDICTS

The sons of Thomas (1) and Mary were named Thomas, JOHN (2), Samuel, James, and Daniel. (It is believed that all of the Benedicts in this country who spell their name this way are descendants of these five men).

Of the daughters of the immigrant Thomas (1), Betty married John Slawson or Slauson, of Stanford; Mary was married in 1680 to John Olmstead, of Norwalk; Sarah was married in 1679 to James Beebe, of Stratford; and Rebecca married a Dr. Samuel Wood.

Thomas (2) eldest son of the immigrant Thomas, married Mary Messenger at Jamaica, L. I., but later removed to Norwalk. Their children were Thomas (an only son) and five daughters, Mary, Hannah, Esther, Abigail, and Elizabeth.

John (2) son of the immigrant Thomas, born at Southold, L. I., removed with his family to Norwalk and married Phoebe Gregory 11|11|1670. Their progeny were Sarah, Phoebe, JOHN (3), Jonathan, Benjamin, Joseph, James, Mary or Mercy, and Thomas. John the elder succeeded his father as deacon of the Norwalk Church.

John (3) born 3|3|1676, died 1|16|1766, son of the first John and grandson of the immigrant Thomas, married Mary Haite. Children: John, Mathew, CALEB (4), Nathaniel, Anna or Hannah, and Phoebe.

Caleb (4) born 1709, married Mehitable Hoyt. Eight children were born in New Cannan, Conn. CALEB (5) in our line.

Caleb (5) Bapt. Dec. 28, 1740, died 5|6|1812. Married Deborah St. John, 1|28|1760. She was the mother of ten children. CALEB (6) in our line. Married 2d. Hannah Pennoyer, Jan. 1786, who died 1806, New Canaan, Conn. Caleb (5) served in the Revolutionary War under Captain John Carter. Listed in the D.A.R. Lineage Book, Vol. 17, p. 9 as 16018.
